

Download Decision Making In Spinal Care

What is Shared Decision Making? Shared Decision Making (SDM) is a collaborative, patient-directed decision making process that helps Veterans, together with their family caregivers and health care team, set goals and priorities, and make choices that meet patient needs while honoring patient values and preferences. OUR DOCTORS. Many of our board-certified orthopedic doctors are also fellowship trained in subspecialties such as sports medicine, spine care, joint replacement, foot surgery and hand surgery. Through shared decision making, the nurses thought through various model shapes including a palm tree, starfish, and heart, and then collaboratively decided on a star-shaped model with a diamond in the center. We report an update on standards of care recommendations for spinal muscular atrophy. • The paper provides a review of the recent literature. • Expert opinion is provided where there was not enough published evidence., Decision Making In Spinal Care.

Other Files :